About SFJ

The Surface Finishing Society of Japan (SFJ), initially named the metal finishing society, was founded in 1950 to advance the surface finishing technology for science and industry. Later, it was renamed the Surface Finishing Society of Japan.

In 2000, the SFJ celebrated the 50th anniversary of its foundation, with current membership exceeding 2,300, including 360 organization members and 30 foreign members from 5 countries.

The primary mission of the SFJ is to contribute results of research to scientists and to promote the growth of the surface finishing industry. To pursue the mission, we hold various academic conferences, hold lecture meetings, and publish our journal.

Activities

Symposia, seminars on the latest topics, intensive training course, and plant/laboratory tours are held from time to time.

The SURTECH SHOW, sponsoring SFJ, is the latest exhibition for the surface finishing industry in Asia. It is held annually in January.
